This is Bengaluru

The capital city of Karnataka has multiple personalities, and it dons them all with zest. World-class art galleries, landscaped gardens, and Victorian-era architecture rub shoulders with a buzzing tech scene, happening clubs, and cutting-edge restaurants. Whether you enjoy heritage walks, pub crawls, wellness retreats, or adventure getaways, Bengaluru and its satellite destinations will be happy to oblige.

HUMBLE BEGINNINGS

Literally meaning ‘Town of Boiled Beans’, Bengaluru supposedly derived its name from an ancient incident involving an old village woman who served cooked pulses to a lost and hungry Hoysala king. Kempegowda, a feudal lord, was the first person to demarcate the area of Bengaluru by building a mud fort in 1537, and watchtowers that pinpointed the city’s boundaries. Remnants of the watchtowers still exist in Lal Bagh Botanical Garden.

An aerial view of the distinctive red Attara Kacheri (High Court) building and Vidhana Soudha Kempambudhi Tank, the edge of Ulsoor Lake, and Mekhri Circle. The town remained obscure until 1759, when it was gifted to Hyder Ali and his son, Tipu Sultan. The British arrived in 1809 and made the settlement their regional administrative base in 1831, naming it Bangalore. During the Raj era, the city played host to many a British officer, including Winston Churchill, who enjoyed life here during his greener years and famously left a debt (still on the books) of ₹13 at the Bangalore Club.

BOOMING BUSINESS

Home to countless software, electronics, and business-outsourcing firms today, Bengaluru’s knack for technology developed early. In 1905 it was the first Indian city to have electric street lighting. Since the 1940s it has been home to Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd (HAL), India’s largest aerospace company. The trend continues and now Bengaluru has the third highest number of tech start-ups in the world and a booming IT industry that has earned it the monicker of India’s Silicon Valley. However, while the city has seen rapid urbanisation over the past decade, with many glitzy housing developments and tech parks cropping up in the suburbs, the central district (dating back to the British Raj years) remains little changed. You will also see impressive examples of neo-Dravidian architecture, such as the majestic granite Vidhana Soudha, which was completed in 1956 and is the largest legislative building in India.

CAPITAL OF COOL
Bengaluru’s cosmopolitan vibe and almost always pleasant weather wins over most people visiting the city. While the city’s name was changed from Bangalore to Bengaluru in November 2006, the old name continues to be in usage. This is possibly because it exudes a sense of nostalgia and familiarity, even to those who come here for a short while. Bengaluru today is cosmopolitan and youthful, striking a perfect balance between high-energy economic activity and a love of the good life. But it is not just about the restaurants, microbreweries, and artisanal coffee shops. Bengaluru has many wonderful art galleries, a vibrant theatre scene, and an affinity for literature as its many bookstores attest. Another striking characteristic is the burgeoning sense of collective conscience in the community. It’s not unusual to see pro-social initiatives in action, whether it’s groups like the Ugly Indian organising spot cleaning on the streets, or a recycling-reuse drive through households.

GETAWAYS GALORE
Bengaluru is conveniently located to a number of holiday destinations, making it the perfect launching point for a getaway. Scattered around the city are rolling hills rife with plantations, wildlife reserves, medieval temples, and grand ruins, not to speak of hiking trails, rafting trips, yoga retreats, and luxurious resorts. Unsurprisingly, the culture of driving out for short trips thrives amongst residents, even if it’s just for a picnic at verdant Nandi Hills, a spot of birdwatching at Galibore Nature Camp, or an overnight stay for personal rejuvenation at Ayurvedagram on the outskirts of town.

WHEN TO GO

Bengaluru offers pleasant, travel-friendly weather all year round, although April and May can get hot.

- October—March (high season): The coolest months are the best to explore Bengaluru, with moderate temperatures in the range of 20°C—28°C. You may need a light jacket as nights can get chilly.

- April—May (low season): These are the warmest months with temperatures ranging from 22°C—36°C.

- June—September (mid season): The monsoon months are not a deterrent to travel as Bengaluru’s tree-lined streets emerge refreshed after showers. The temperatures remain between 22°C—36°C, with slightly chilly evenings. Expect traffic to slow down significantly on rainy days. Alternatively, you can also time your visit to coincide with events in Bengaluru’s events and cultural calendar (p27).

Quick Facts

LANGUAGES
The main language spoken in Bengaluru is Kannada but travellers can get around easily with Hindi and English.

MONEY
ATMs of major private and state owned banks are aplenty in Bengaluru. Most hotels allow card payment, but it’s best to book ahead to get better deals. Keep cash handy for small payments, such as for auto-rickshaws.

INTERNET ACCESS
Mid to high-end hotels offer free Wi-Fi with varying degree of speed and efficacy. This may be chargeable in some cases or available only in common areas.

MOBILE CONNECTIVITY
Providers such as Airtel, Vodafone and Jio make 3G and 4G services available through the state, except in remote locations where the signal may be sporadic. You’ll find great connectivity in the capital city.

TOURIST INFORMATION
Registered tourism offices are all over the state, with the main ones in Bengaluru: Department of Tourism, Government of Karnataka and Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation. Visit www.karnatakatourism.org and www.kstdc.co for more details.

ACCOMMODATION
Bengaluru offers a variety of boutique and branded chain hotels for all budgets, as well as hostels. The rates in the book are for AC double rooms (d) and suites (ste) and do not include taxes or breakfast unless specified.

- ₹ Below ₹2000
- ₹₹ from ₹2000—5000
- ₹₹₹ Above ₹5000

EATING
Bengaluru has a vibrant dining and drinking scene. Eateries in this book have been assigned the following rate categories, based on the price of main dishes for two.

- ₹₹₹ over ₹500
- ₹₹ between ₹200—500
- ₹ under ₹200
PLAN AHEAD

Two to three months before: If you plan to visit Bengaluru in peak season, booking hotels, flights, or trains in advance is crucial. Since last-minute tickets can be expensive, it’s ideal to book ahead to bag deals. Check on major holidays and events at this stage—Dussehra, Ugadi, Diwali, Christmas, Bangalore Lit Fest and Bangalore International Film Festival are good occasions around which to time your trip.

One month before: Chalk out a detailed itinerary, pegging down major sightseeing areas and their timings. Accommodate specific holidays while planning your trip.

One week before: Check on timings of sightseeing spots and reconfirm your hotel and cab bookings. Sign up for the latest events, whether it’s a gig, an interesting workshop, or a heritage walk.

WHAT TO PACK

Prescribed medication: Even though there are plenty of hospitals and pharmacies, carry enough prescribed medication for your entire trip.

Comfortable shoes: Chances are that you will have plenty of walking to do in the city, and even hiking if you’re exploring one of the many getaways outside of Bengaluru.

Seasonal clothing: Pack light cotton outfits for the day and a jacket for the night (in winter). Full-length cotton pants are recommended in the monsoon to avoid mosquitoes.

Sunscreen, hat/cap and sunglasses: Protection from the sun is required both in winter and summer.

Original photo identity card: All hotels need you to provide a valid photo ID card for check-in.

GETTING THERE

Air: Kempegowda International Airport in Bengaluru is the main air node of Karnataka, connecting major cities in India and abroad. It lies approximately 35km/1 hour from the heart of the city. Feeder bus services and a steady supply of call taxis connect the city to the airport.

Bus: Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) has a large fleet of air-conditioned and regular buses that connect Bengaluru with other destinations, big and small, in the region.

Train: City Railway Station (SBC) is the best connected in the Karnataka capital. Others, with limited platforms and connectivity, include Yesvantpur Junction (YPR), Bangalore East (BNCE), Banaswadi (BAND) and Kengeri (KGI).

For information on getting around in Bengaluru and its environs, see p20.

Dos and Don’ts

Do

- Try the local food; dishes from all over the state are available in Bengaluru.
- Wear modest clothing inside religious places.
- Carry a hand sanitiser for public or restaurant toilets.
- Remove footwear in homes, if the hosts do.
- Sample the local food on heritage walks run by locals.

Don’t

- Discuss per day/per km rates for guides, cab and auto drivers beforehand.
- Expect clean loos with toilet paper in small restaurants.
- Use cameras inside temple sanctuums.
- Shop for handicrafts in major tourist spots. Instead, opt for NGOs, government-run shops or homegrown Bengaluru brands.
10 Top Experiences

1 BENGALURU ON FOOT
A good wander through its streets will warm you up to Bengaluru faster than anything else. And it’s even better when you get insider anecdotes, valuable travel tips, and fascinating history every step of the way. Bengaluru is home to a number of homegrown heritage and urban walks, where experts help in unveiling the different facets of the city. See different neighbourhoods through the filter you enjoy best, whether it’s culture, cuisine, or history. We love the food focus of Oota Walks, the historical rigour of Unhurried Tours, the cultural insights offered by INTACH Parichay walks, and the themed tours of Bangalore Walks (see p37 for more on walking tours).

2 BANGALORE PALACE
Believed to be modelled on England’s Windsor Castle, the ivy-clad Bangalore Palace (p34) is a legacy of Mysuru’s royal family from the late 19th century. The Tudor revival style dominates the architecture while the interiors are decorated with elegant floral motifs, paintings and woodcarvings. An extensive audio tour of the palace takes you through the ballroom on the ground floor and the elaborate Durbar Hall on the first, packed with paintings, artefacts, mounted animal heads, and more. The manual lift here was imported from England. Try the royal-style horse carriage ride around the sprawling palace grounds.

3 NATIONAL GALLERY OF MODERN ART
Bangaloreans head to this century-old colonial mansion for a tryst with soothing heritage, excellent art, and lush greenery. The NGMA (p34) opened its doors a decade ago as one of India’s three national modern art galleries. More than 500 pieces of modern Indian art, photography, sculpture and prints are displayed in the gallery, including Indian miniatures, colonial-era paintings, and works by the Bengal School and post-independence artists. There are regular documentary screenings, gallery walks, and workshops here as well.
4 AMAZING BREWS
Beer beckons and coffee calls in Bengaluru. Given the city's proximity to coffee stalwarts like Chikkamagaluru and Kodagu, it is no wonder that it has a heady cafe culture. Coffee aficionados can have their pick of roasts and blends in the many delightful cafes (p55) that have mushroomed in the city. If you like your brews stronger, Bengaluru is also the undisputed microbrewery capital of India. Scores of microbreweries (p54 & 57) lie a stroll away from each other, offering a tempting array of beer and ale flavours (honey lavender, anyone?).

5 NIMHANS BRAIN MUSEUM
Medical instruments, skeletons, prosthetics, pickled parts in formalin, and anatomical drawings abound in this one-of-a-kind museum. The National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro-Sciences (NIMHANS), one of India’s finest medical institutions, is also home to the Brain Museum (p38), where the morbidly curious can see hundreds of brain specimens, and observe how the organ looks when it is affected by everything from aneurysms to bacterial infections to trauma. The carefully preserved specimens are fodder for endless fascination, especially if neuropathologist Dr Shankar is available to walk you around.

6 VERDANT PARKS
Bengaluru has a reputation as a ‘city of gardens’, with scenic lungs of the city providing a welcome respite from the traffic-clogged streets. While the green-scape has dwindled in recent years, two major parks have retained much of their glory. The 240-acre Lal Bagh Botanical Gardens (p37) is known for its large collection of rare botanical specimens and its famous flower show in January, while the 300 acres of Cubbon Park (p35) encompass statues of Queen Victoria and King Edward, gazebos to rest weary legs, thickets of bamboo, generous grassy stretches, a tennis academy, a children’s park, and rocky outcrops.
7 MAVALLI TIFFIN ROOMS
The century-old Mavalli Tiffin Rooms (p49), MTR for short, still holds sway as a Bengaluru culinary institution even though hundreds of other eating options have cropped up in the city. Built in 1920 by three brothers, MTR has remained one of the most economical and delicious options for puffy idlis, dosas and host of other ‘tiffin’ options. The original Lal Bagh Road branch is close to the gorgeous namesake gardens, where you can walk off all that you have gorged on.

8 CLIMBING ADVENTURES
Karnataka is home to some of the best-loved rock-climbing destinations in India, and Bengaluru and its environs are a great way to get a taste of this adrenaline-igniting activity. Within the city, you can pay a visit to Equilibrium (p59), India’s first indoor climbing centre or drive 50km out of the city to Ramanagara (p71), where the film Sholay was shot. Here you can follow Gabbar Singh’s footsteps and marvel at some of the world’s oldest granite outcrops—or even better, climb them.

9 OPERA HOUSE
The iconic Opera House of Bengaluru got a fresh lease of life in 2018, when the crumbling building was restored to its former glory. The building was bought in 1959 as a cinema hall by Mr. KR Kanakarathnam but was originally designed by a Thomas Charles William Skipp whose name features on several other old Bengaluru buildings. Rechristened as the Samsung Opera House (p58), it is now branded as the company’s largest ‘experience centre’ in the world. The state-of-the-art virtual reality and home theatre experiences might draw a different crowd to the once opera- and movie-loving audiences, but locals count the revival of the aging building as a win.

10 WELLNESS RETREATS
Bengaluru may be fast-paced but it also knows how to relax. Just a short drive will take you to some excellent wellness retreats (p45) that offer a combination of creature comforts and traditional mind-body healing. Choices include Soukya, where you can de-stress with Ayurveda, yoga and naturopathy, Ayurvedagram where you can detox and yet indulge yourself, and Shreyas Yoga Retreat, where world-class luxury and wellness meet.
Getting Around

You have a choice of metro, bus, taxi, and auto to make your way around Bengaluru. The city is also located extremely conveniently to a wide range of holiday destinations, aided by efficient bus services and smooth highways. For information on getting to Bengaluru, see p13.

BUS

Bengaluru has a comprehensive local bus network, operated by the Bengaluru Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC; www.mybmtc.com), with a useful website for timetables and fares. Red AC Vajra buses criss-cross the city, while green Big10 deluxe buses connect the suburbs.

METRO

Bengaluru’s relatively new AC metro service, Namma Metro, is still a work in progress, but it does have two colour-coded lines up and running. The most relevant route to tourists is the Purple Line: useful stops include MG Road (for shopping and bars) and Indiranagar (for restaurants and nightlife).

TAXI & AUTO

At Bengaluru airport, the three ‘official’ taxi service providers are Karnataka Taxi (080 44664466; www.karnatakaholidays.net), MegaCabs (4747 4747; www.megacabs.com), and Meru Cabs (4422 4422; www.merucabs.com). In the city, there are many app-based taxis. For a full-day cab hire for sightseeing, expect to pay ₹1200 for 8 hrs/80km. Auto rickshaws charge a minimum fare of ₹25; expect to haggle a bit and determine rates beforehand. Very few auto drivers use meters.

ORGANISED TRIPS

A great way to quickly cover all the major sightseeing spots of a city or circuit is to sign up for KSTDC’s City Holidays (080 43344334; www.kstdc.co; cost per head approx ₹495). These day-long tours cover all the landmark monuments and temples and give you a speedy yet comprehensive orientation. Options include Bengaluru, Mysuru, Nandi Hills, and Mysuru-Shravanabelagola-Beluru and Halebidu. Another alternative is to sign up for customised package tours by KSTDC (080 43344334; www.kstdc.co; info@kstdc.co; call, write or connect via website form), based on your preferences.

EXPLORING THE REGION

Car & taxi: For trips out of Bengaluru, cabs and self-driven cars (such as by Zoom; www.zoomcar.com) offer most flexibility. Taxi charges vary from ₹10—12 per km, and the minimum number of km in a day is 250. If you hire a car just for the day (or long distance), you need to pay the driver a separate daily allowance (₹200—300 per day); this is called ‘bata’. Toll expenses are generally borne by the traveller. Reliable private operators include NR Enterprises Ola and Uber are options to choose from for your cab rides in the city.

Bus: AC Volvos with pushback seats are suitable for overnight trips. Book with Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (www.ksrtc.in) or on the aggregator website Redbus (www.redbus.in). There are five major terminals in the city: Majestic, KR Market, Shivajinagar, Shantinagar, and Banashankari.
Eating in Bengaluru

Bengaluru is a dining powerhouse. On its platter are cleverly curated cafes, food trucks, vintage restaurants, and a packed menu of authentic regional dishes and all types of world cuisines.

CLASSIC HAUNTS

Bengaluru is dotted with decades-old restaurants with humble origins but excellent local fare, including the legendary MTR (p49) and the 1943-established Vidyarthi Bhavan (p52). In such places, benne dosa, idli-vade-poori-sagu, kharabath, kesari bhath, and filter coffee rule the menus. You might have to share a table with a stranger, given the steady stream of devoted patrons.

Benne dosa gets its name from the generous use of butter.

ECLECTIC FLAVOURS

Bengaluru’s dining scene is ever-evolving, with new restaurants popping up frequently, particularly in entertainment hub Indiranagar and the recently revived MG Road. World cuisines (think French, Korean, Lebanese, beyond the usual Thai and Italian) are juxtaposed with well-worn Indian classics. Bangaloreans are also becoming more mindful of what’s on their plate and vegan cafes (p46) have found a great foothold.

REGIONAL DELIGHTS

The traditional fare of south India continues to stand the test of time. And we’re not just talking about standard dosas, idlis, and the like. Oota Bangalore (p45) pays homage to regional Karnataka cuisines that have not yet hit the mainstream, especially from the hilly Malenadu region. Halli Mane (p52) does veg cuisine you don’t often find in restaurants, including akki roti and summer Holidays Best summer Holidays Mangaluru buns. Mangalore Pearl (p49) is a go-to for coastal seafood, including crab ghee roast. The Coorg Food Co (p97312 21120; 2nd Fl, Masand Esquire, Hennur Main Rd, Kalyan Nagar; noon–10:30pm) offers a range of pork dishes from the Kodagu region along with soul-satisfying rice cakes.

COFFEE CULTURE

Bengaluru’s coffee scene is hinged as much on a ‘cup of Joe’ in a hip cafe, as the frothy ‘metre (filter) coffee’ poured expertly from tumbler to bowl in a humble stall. Here you can try roasts from Chikkamagaluru or Kodagu, as well as those from across the seas. Even today, though, old-timers like Indian Coffee House (p55) give new arrivals a run for their money.
Shopping Guide

If you want it, you will probably get it in Bengaluru. Bargain hunters will find much enticement in the slim lanes of Commercial Street, boho-chic shoppers will have no shortage of oh-so-cool independent boutiques, mall-crawlers will never be too far from a fix, and traditionalists will be spoiled for choice with classy silks and antiques.

SOUTH SILKS
Karnataka is the country’s largest silk-producing state. Unsurprisingly, Bengaluru is brimming with shops selling quality silks from the region. To get your hands on luxurious silks from Mysuru and beyond, take a peep at Mysore Saree Udyog (p60), Rukmini Hall (p60), Angadi Galleria (p61), and scores of other shops in the Chickpet area. If you’re planning to head out of the city on Mysore Road, keep your eyes peeled for villages doing silkworm cultivation—more than a million people earn their livelihood by making silk here.

KITSCH FIX
With its growing pool of hip young citizens, Bengaluru is fast becoming the capital of kitsch, where open-air flea markets and cosy shops are crammed with retro treasures and arty one-offs. You’ll find practically a warehouse-load of unique apparel, kitschy knick-knacks, silver jewellery and flip-flops in designer boutiques. A large part of the kitsch vibe is contributed by trendy flea markets such as Sunday Soul Santhe (www.sundaysoulsante.com) and the art-focused Chitra Santhe. The half-canopied/half open-air flea markets cram in creative wares from local designers, furniture makers, artists, and photographers. Apart from bargains and designer pieces, there are also food stalls and pop-up concerts to keep the mood upbeat.

ANTIQUES & CURIOS
For many travellers to the city, Bengaluru is a veritable hunting ground for antiques and curios from the handicrafts’ cache of the state. Stacks of battered tableware, weathered frames, gramophones, and metal statues and utensils can be found in the back-alley bazaars of Chickpet & Avenue Road (p60). Arts and crafts emporia—all offering an array of curios from all over the state—are great for a last-minute souvenir dash.

BOOKS
Bookworms should not miss the loose bookshop trail on MG Road, Brigade Road, and Church Street. Several prominent stores and many makeshift pavement displays of reprints make for an interesting walk and also give an insight into what really stirs the intellect of Bangaloreans. While shops like Higginbothams and Gangarams Book Bureau on Church Street helped shape the reading culture of the town, Book Worm, Select, and Blossoms are recommended for second-hand books at reasonable prices.

CONTEMPORARY SHOPPING HUBS
A slew of malls, branded chain stores, and designer boutiques have colonised Bengaluru. Walking into any of them will show you how the city has kept up with sophisticated brands and stylish fashions from across the world. UB City (p60) is one of the best destinations in town for fashion.

Top Tip: Local handicrafts
Karnataka is well known for a variety of handicrafts. Look in particular for inlay work, Mysore paintings, wooden toys from Channapatna, stone carved curios from Halebidu and Belur, bidri ware (metallic crafts) from Bidar, filigree and silverware, rugs, theatre crafts (Yakshagana masks), gombe (traditional) dolls, and metalware from Udupi and Nagamangala. All of the above pack the emporiums of Bengaluru.
Activities & Entertainment

Bangaloreans have a huge and eclectic appetite for live gigs, outdoor fun, movies and theatre, heritage walks, and workshops of various hues, making the city suitable for travellers with all kinds of interests.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

There is no excuse to stay indoors for long in Bengaluru. You can spend action-packed mornings with cycling tours, or dirt biking/hiking at the Turahalli Forest. You can even try microlight flying at Jakkur airfield (p59).

INDOOR THRILLS

The incredible outdoors are matched by indoor delights aplenty. Live music is a fixture at pubs and venues such as The Humming Tree (p56). New on the map is the Samsung Opera House (p58), which doubles up as a venue for concerts, screenings, and workshops. There are also 7D simulator theatres, such as 7D voyage (Bangalore Central Mall, Outer Ring Rd, Bellandur), that take you on virtual adventures.

FOR THE KIDS

Reserve a day for Wonder La (p58), a theme park with water slides and exciting rides. Other hits include Snow City (080 23550000; www.snowcityblr.com), and Innovative Film City (080 22099999; www.innovativefilmcity.in) with its large larger-than-life sets. Bannerghatta Biological Park & Wildlife Safari (p41) offers a tryst with wildlife, while Bistro Claytopia (p59) and the Indian Music Experience (p41) engage kids in creative ways.

EXPERT RECOMMENDATION

Bengaluru’s cultural calendar

Vani Ganapathy is a Bharatanatyam performer and cultural exponent. She is based in Bengaluru.

Namma Bengaluru Habba The youthful week-long fest brings a medley of performing arts at venues across the city. Everything is free.

Chitra Santhe (www.karnatakachitrakalaparishath.com): The Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath hosts an annual one-day art and sculpture festival in late January.

Ramanavami Music Festival A classical music fest held at Fort School grounds over a month, beginning April. For the connoisseur.

Ranga Shankara Theatre Festival (www.rangashankaratheatrefestival.com): Good drama is guaranteed at this excellent festival in October—November, hosted by theatre gurus Arundhati Nag and Girish Karnad (until his death in 2019).

MAJOR EVENTS

Film and theatre lovers flock to the Bangalore International Film Festival (www.biffes.in, Feb) and the Ranga Shankara Theatre Festival. The Bangalore Literature Festival (www.bangaloreliteraturefestival.org) attracts the best literary minds, while music festivals draw fans of all genres: there’s Bangalore Open Air (www.bangaloreopnair.com) for heavy metal, Ruhaniyat (www.ruhaniyat.com) for Sufi music, Lakshminarayana Global Music Festival (www.lgmf.org), and the shiny new Beantown Backyard Festival (www.beantownbackyardfest.com). Other top events include Aero India (www.aeroindia.gov.in), a biennial air show, the two-day Kadlekai Pariseh (groundnut festival) at Dodda Ganesha Temple, and the Karaga Festival held at the Dharmaraya Swamy Temple, dedicated to Queen Draupadi. A bright spot is the more than 200 years old Lal Bagh Flower Show (late Jan).
Bengaluru in 4 days

Even if you’re pressed for time, you can discover fascinating historical buildings, local delicacies, immersive art and entertainment hubs, and the vibrant drinking and dining scene in this exciting city and its immediate environs. The only thing you’ll need to master is the art of dodging traffic and making the most of your four days.

DAY 1: KNOW THE CITY

Orient yourself to Bengaluru with a heritage walk that will help place the city in a historical and cultural context. We recommend Bangalore Walks’ (p37) classic offering around MG Road for a guided few hours of trawling past historical buildings, as you listen to ample anecdotes that include monkeys, Winston Churchill, and Tipu Sultan. You’ll have time enough to take a look at the Government Museum (p36), Vidhana Soudha (p36), and the National Gallery of Modern Art (NGMA, p34) as well. Later in the day, grab lunch at one of the oldest restaurants in town, Koshy’s (p49). Walk off the carbs at Cubbon Park (p35) amidst bright green foliage in the evening and stick around the same MG Road area, the nightlife hub of the city.

The Golden Chariot Train is luxury in motion

If You Like: Luxury trains

Karnataka’s Golden Chariot Train is an ode to the stone chariot structure in Hampi and a luxurious offering with flawless hospitality and grand coaches. You can book an eight-day/seven-night journey on the luxury train to experience key sightseeing and wildlife spots of the state. The Karnataka leg of the route includes Bengaluru, Kabini, Srirangapatnam, Mysuru, Shravanbelagola, Belur, Halebidu, Hampi, Badami, Pattadakal, and Goa. Book on www.kstdc.co or www.goldenchariot.org.

DAY 2: A DAY OF OUTDOOR ADVENTURE

Use this day (preferably a Saturday) to explore the outskirts of the city for adventure activities (p69). You can sign up for a day of climbing at Ramanagara Hills (p71), cycling in the nature trails of Turahalli Forest, camping near Anantagere or Manchinbele waterbodies for a day of kayaking or hiking through the craggy hillsides of Savandurga. You can also spend a day enjoying nature and coracle rides at Galibore Nature Camp (p66). In the evening, you’ll be just about in time to hit the pubs of Indiranagar, the epicentre of nightlife in the city. Most pubs are a stroll away from each other, and there’s eclectic food to match the variety of beers. You can also time your trip with a popular indie band playing at The Humming Tree (p56).

DAY 3: SAMPLE THE FOOD SCENE

Start the day with a hot filter kaapi and authentic south Indian breakfast at MTR (p49). To keep the soul fed as much as the stomach, visit Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath (p35) or a Paulogy (p61), for contemporary, ethnic and Bengaluru focused art. Take a break to sample the city’s vegan food at Carrots (p46). For dinner, head to Oota Bangalore (p45), where you can find finely curated meals from different parts of the state. Before that, grab a drink at Windmills Craftworks (p54) in the same building. On a budget? Try Thindi Beedi (p51), a four-hour street food strip of 500 metres that keeps buzzing till midnight.

DAY 4: GET HIGH

Weather dependent, you can sign up for a microlight flying session at Jakkur Flying Club (p59). It will be a great way to see Bengaluru from an alternative perspective. You’ll still have time to make it for a daylong winery tour (p65) just outside the city. Karnataka is India’s second largest producer of grapes, and offers several opportunities on the outskirts of Bengaluru to observe the wine-production process and also taste the output.

Gleaming high-rises in Bengaluru’s central business district
Bengaluru is rightly famous for its youthful energy, but it is also rewarding to explore its Hindu, Mughal, and colonial heritage. Here you can eat, drink and make merry, but there are also options for meditation, adventure, and cultural immersion. The city is also a perfect springboard for travelling to other destinations in the Deccan.

Quick Facts

GETTING THERE & AROUND
Bengaluru has air connections to major cities in India and beyond, and a robust rail and road network too. There is also plenty of infrastructure for getting around the city and travelling out (see p20).

GREAT FOR

Guided walks (p37): An excellent way to get familiar with the city’s rich heritage, modern delights, and culinary secrets.

Detoxing at a wellness retreat (p45): Rejuvenate your body and mind at one of the many resorts near Bengaluru.

Taste regional Kannada cuisines: There’s a large variety at Oota Bangalore (p45) and modern takes in The Permit Room (p54).

TOP PICKS

Bangalore Palace (p34): The city’s answer to Windsor Castle.

Cauvery Arts & Craft Emporium (p60): Stunning Karnataka handicrafts at every price point.

The 19th-century Cubbon Park was officially renamed as Sri Chamarajendra Park.
Sights

Bangalore Palace

Surrounded by landscaped gardens, the late 19th-century Bangalore Palace at first glance looks as if it has been imported from England, with its Tudor-style turrets and towers. Go inside, though, and you will be taken into the world of Mysuru’s royal Wodeyar family. Navigate it with the help of the well-organised audio tour, which will take you through the grand ballroom on the ground floor and the elaborate Durbar Hall on the first, packed with paintings, artefacts, mounted animal heads, and more. The adjoining palace grounds have been the venue for many international concerts for the music-loving city. Iconic performers from the Rolling Stones to David Guetta to Elton John have performed here.

There’s also an amusement park on the premises called Fun World (www.funworldblr.com). ☎️ 080 23360818; 1 Palace Rd, Vasanthanagar; Indians/foreigners/camera ₹230/465/695; 10am–5.30pm

National Gallery of Modern Art

Housed in a century-old restored mansion—once the vacation home of the Raja of Mysuru—this world-class art museum showcases an impressive permanent collection as well as changing exhibitions. The Old Wing exhibits works from pre-Independence, including paintings by Raja Ravi Varma and Abanindranath Tagore (founder of the avant garde Bengal School art movement). Interconnected by a walk bridge, the sleek New Wing focuses on contemporary post-Independence works by artists such as Sudhir Patwardhan and Vivan Sundaram. Outside are gigantic shady trees, fountains and well-maintained gardens. The gallery also hosts workshops, film screenings, talks and events around music, theatre and dance. Consider booking yourself for the free instructed walks, ‘Introduction to the language of visual art’ (Wed, 3pm) and ‘Introduction to Modern Indian Art’ (Sat, 10.30am).

Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath

Established in 1960, the art complex includes museums, galleries and large collections of art curated from across India. There are permanent displays of Mysuru-style paintings and folk and tribal art from across Asia. A section is devoted to the works of Russian master Nicholas Roerich, known for his vivid paintings of the Himalayas.

It is also an active art college and popular venue for pop-up handloom and crafts markets. Keep an eye out for weekly music and dance events.

Cubbon Park

In the heart of Bengaluru’s business district is Cubbon Park, a well-maintained 300-acre urban paradise where Bengaluru’s residents converge to steal a moment from the rat race that rages outside. The vast expanse of the park encompasses three major monuments: the Seshadri Iyer Memorial Library, the 1876-built State Archaeological Museum and the Attara Kacheri (court). Rangoli Metro Art Centre

The restoration of MG Road was heralded on 6 May, 2013, and the green boulevard was finally liberated from the dishevelment brought about by metro construction. Today, there’s a two-tiered pathway with a gallery, shops, children’s play area and artisans’ hub, and even a friendship-band tying corner all along the 500m stretch below the metro. Go earlier in the day to absorb the curated galleries and artwork, as evenings get extremely busy.

(Boulevard MG Rd; 10am–7pm)
is not completely closed to traffic, except on Sundays when there are concerts, fun runs, yoga and even a small farmer’s market. There’s no traffic between 5—8am for the benefit of walkers.

Vidhana Soudha & Attara Kacheri

Near Cubbon Park is Bengaluru’s most important address, the Vidhana Soudha (the seat of the state legislature). Though it is out of bounds for the public, the grand Indo-Saracenic and Dravidian style of architecture makes for a magnificent backdrop for photos. On the opposite of the road stands the bright red Attara Kacheri, the High Court, a Gothic building constructed under the reign of Tipu Sultan.

Government Museum & Venkatappa Art Gallery

An assortment of artefacts, weapons, musical instruments and paintings are spread over the double-storied halls of the Government Museum, which was established in 1865 and which shifted to the current building in 1877. Exhibits range from 10th-century Hampi to relics associated with 18th-century king Tipu Sultan. Avoid going on a Sunday as it can get rather crowded. The attached Venkatappa Gallery showcases well-displayed sculptures dating back to 2nd century AD. You can also see works and personal memorabilia of K Venkatappa (1887–1962), court painter to the Wodeyar rulers.

St. Marks Cathedral

This landmark built in the Baroque style harks back to Bengaluru’s colonial past, and was consecrated in 1816 by the Bishop of Calcutta (it was rebuilt several times since then due to a series of mishaps, most recently in 1927).

Highlights in the interiors include intricate woodwork, stained glass, and Roman arches.

Do try to visit on a Sunday, as the gates are often closed on weekdays.

INTACH Parichay walks The Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH) organises trawls that give an in-depth look at the culture and heritage of particular localities. They also do special interest tours, such as for vintage cars or food (including a Ramzan special). Publicly announced walks are usually on the last weekend of the month, but they also do custom walks for groups.

Lal Bagh Botanical Gardens

Spread over 240 acres, Lal Bagh was commissioned by Hyder Ali and later completed under the rule of his son Tipu Sultan in 1760. Along with centuries-old trees, it claims to have the world’s most diverse species of plants. Highlights of the park include a glasshouse, one of the four towers of Kempegowda, and a hillock made up of 3000 million-year-old gneissic rock. The annual flower show in January draws thousands here.

Walking tours

A walking tour is an excellent way to get acquainted with the vast history and multifarious cultural influences of Bengaluru. Here are some outfits.

Bangalore Walks These well-constructed and ‘easy on the legs’ walking tours take on a variety of themes, including the Victorian era, parks, and military heritage. The Victorian Bangalore Walk is particularly popular and takes you down the small stretch from Trinity Church, covering East Parade Church, landmark buildings and monuments like Mayo Hall, Utility Building and Kittel’s statue on MG Road, ending in breakfast at the Barton Centre.

NIHMANS Brain Museum

Located on the campus of the National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro-Sciences (NIHMANS), this museum will literally blow your mind, especially when you are given the opportunity to actually touch a preserved human brain, under guidance of course.

An attempt by NIHMANS to promote awareness about the brain, the museum offers an educative talk and, with the help of hundreds of specimens, a peek into how the brain grows, develops, and also sickens for various reasons.

St. Mary’s Basilica

The white steeple of St. Mary’s Basilica can be spotted from a distance when approaching the thickly populated Shivaji Nagar area. The basilica has watched over the area since the 17th century and deserves a quick stop while exploring the Commercial Street–Shivaji Nagar area. Close by, the 1864-built, red building of St. Andrews Church (also called Martyr’s Church), peeks out of a thick copse on Cubbon Road.

Dodda Basavana Gudi (Bull Temple)

Built in 1537, this temple is dedicated to Shiva’s vahana (vehicle), Nandi. A large rocky outcrop, known as Bugle Rock, straddles the temple compound as you walk towards the right from the adjacent Ganesha Temple. The towering 15ft Nandi statue is one of the biggest in India. Basavanagudi; 7.30am–8.30pm

Tipu Sultan Palace

Enter through a well-manicured garden to find yourself in the summer palace of Tipu Sultan (1781), which sits oasis-like amidst modern buildings. The characteristic Indo-Islamic architectural features, wooden pillars and the unexpectedly cool flooring (even on a hot day) on the ground floor are highlights.

Bangalore Fort

The burly granite walls of the Bangalore Fort contain a peaceful haven from the crowded KR Market outside. This is the only remaining part of the original fort built by Kempegowda in 1537 AD, which later changed hands to Hyder Ali and then Lord Cornwallis. In fact, a tablet in the wall is testimony to mark the city boundaries, its founder Kempegowda—a chieftain of the Vijayanagara empire—built four cardinal towers in the year 1537. History lovers can give it a whirl by visiting all four. One of the towers lies atop a hillock in Lal Bagh Botanical Gardens, the second at the edge of Ulsoor Lake, another near Kempambudhi Lake, close to the Bandi Mahakali Temple at Hanumanthanagar, and the final one near the Mekhri circle underpass in the well-maintained Ramana Maharishi Park.

Temple Street, Malleshwaram

Four magnificent temples preside benevolently over the neighbourhood of Malleshwaram. The grandest of the four is the Kadu Malleshwara Temple. True to its name (‘kadu’ means forest in Kannada), the Shiva temple lies in a thicket of greens that provide a serene backdrop for yoga and meditation. On the opposite side of the road, Nandeeshwara Temple boasts a 7000-year-old legacy; it was excavated much later from beneath layers of soil. It also has a kalyani (temple tank) inside. Gangamma Devi Temple (dedicated to a female deity who is revered locally) and Sri Lakshmi Narasimha Temple

An artful display at Indian Music Experience (dedicated to an incarnation of Lord Vishnu) lie adjacent to Kadu Malleshwara, and are usually bursting with early morning worshippers. Gangamma Devi Temple also sees an annual three-day fair to celebrate the goddess. Basavanagudi; 7.30am–noon, 5–8.30pm

ISKCON Temple

Inaugurated in 1997, the International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON) Temple is a massive complex that is lavishly decorated in a mix of ultra-contemporary and traditional styles. There are 10 temples here and even a pretty good eatery (7.30am–2pm, 4.30–9pm). Strains of ‘Hare Rama, Hare Krishna’ are a constant backdrop to your visit, and the place also serves as a venue for talks and musical performances. ☎ 080 23471956; www.iskonbangalore.org; West Chord Rd, Hare Krishna Hall, 1st Block Rajaji Nagar; 7.15am–12.50pm, 4–8.20pm

Detour: Bannerghatta Biological Park

The closest you can get to enjoy a day in the wild is Bannerghatta Biological Park, 22 km off Bengaluru. An exciting vehicle safari takes you through a section of the sprawling park, allowing for sightings of tigers (white ones too), lions, bears, and various herbivores. There’s also a zoo and butterfly park, making it a surefire hit for kids. Bannerghatta is highly recommended for parents wanting to give their children a quick and easy wildlife experience. However, dedicated wildlife lovers, may find that there is a slightly packaged tour feel to the trip. Avoid weekends if you can, as the place gets pretty crowded.☎ 080 22352828; Bannerghatta National Park; entry adult/child ₹80/40, safari + zoo ₹260/130, butterfly park ₹30/20, camera/video ₹25/110; 9am–5pm, Grand safari 11am–4pm, Tue closed

Devanahalli Fort

Located 35km from the city, this fort tells the story of change in rule of the region between 16th to late 18th century. The fort was a mud construction built in 1501 by Malla Baire Gowda, a refugee descendant settled in the area. The fort changed hands between Hyder Ali, Tipu Sultan and was finally overtaken by Lord Cornwallis after the Anglo-Mysore War. Since this is a living fort (there are houses inside), the only significant structures left are the main gate and the stone ramparts. This is best to explore with an INTACH Parichay walk (p37).

Head to the dining room, queue up for a table, and then admire the images of southern beauties etched on smoky glass as waiters bring you delicious idlis and dosas, accompanied by frothing filter coffee served in silverware.

Konark VEG MULTICUISINE ₹

A delight for vegetarians, Konark’s central location, splendid quality of food, family-friendly ambience, and prompt service has helped keep it a long-standing go-to for residents.

Airlines BREAKFAST ₹

Early morning joggers, students bunking college, and other breakfast-seekers congregate under the shade of two large banyan trees for delicious ‘tiffin’ items such as shivage bath, idlis and dosas, all to be washed down with brilliant coffee.

Top Tip: Pocket-friendly dining

Bengaluru is a haven for quick-service authentic south Indian fare, including at chain restaurants like Adigas, Sukh Sagar, Kamath, Shanthi Sagar, and New Shanthi Sagar (often collectively referred to as darshinis) with their ‘stand and eat’ sections with metallic tables where you can gulp down your vadas and filter kaapi. For budget non-veg cuisine, there are military hotels (see p50) peppered across town.

If street food floats your boat, then don’t miss Thindi Beedi or Eat Street (Old Market Rd, VV Puram, 6.30–11.30pm), which stirs to life at dusk with people hollering for their chaat orders, juice, paper dosas, and sweets. Make sure to try local Kannadiga favourites such as milk-dipping chiroti (a yummy layered syrup-soaked pastry).

This quirky wood-floored brewery has been ‘sending it’ (a Bengaluru term for downing drinks) since 2010. It is credited with reviving the city’s waning pub culture a decade or so ago, and it still has plenty of full nights—quite a feat when you consider that it can fit more than 360 happy beer drinkers at a point of time. Try the crisp Toit Weiss white beer and team it up with some flaky grilled fish. Pets are allowed in one section.

Arbor Brewing Company

BREW PUB

080 50144477; www.arborbrewing.in; Magrath Rd; noon–11.30pm
Seven special brews and more to come are the highlight of this spacious American-style brewery. The menu suggests the best pub fare that goes with the different ales.

This colourful place draws out the coolness factor in south Indian culture, right from the decor to the whimsical menu. The creative cocktails include a whisky-laced rasam, Guntur chilli and mango juice with vodka, and a hot toddy of brandy, jaggery and spices. This place has also eschewed the usual fries for nouvelle south Indian cuisine—think filter kaapi mousse, a side of haleem pate, and yam mash with mozzarella.

This place is good for romance, with its flattering yellow lighting, a chic barn-style ambience, and the smoothest gin ‘n’ tonic-based cocktails. Try the ‘British Raj’, which is infused with cinnamon and pomegranate, topped with a rose petal cucumber ice. Nibble on gin-marinated duck buns as you make goo-goo eyes at each other.

Bob’s Bar

PUB

7899025176; 777/1, 100 Feet Rd, HAL 2nd Stage, Doopanahalli, Indiranagar; 11.30am–4pm
Both the décor and the name are a throwback to the city’s ‘cantonment’ days, when bar-goers would call strangers at the next table ‘Bob’ to initiate a chat. Bengaluru-themed graffiti, old-style rattan chairs, and prices that hark back to a more affordable past ensure that this place is always packed. The kheema-dosa with gun powder is a much-ordered item.

Sotally Tober

PUB

91084 60486; www.sotallytober.com; 769, 80 Feet Rd, Koramangala 4th Block, Koramangala; noon–midnight, Sun–Thur; noon–1am Fri & Sat
Youthful partygoers are drawn to the spray-painted walls, on-trend music, and lighting made from teapots and mason jars. What keeps them here are delights such as the whiskey-and-tea cocktail called Sour Chai. There is another outlet off MG Road.

Top Tip: Dancing and live gigs

Bangalore knows how to have fun. Some of the best venues for live gigs and dancing include The Humming Tree (9886618386, Indiranagar), which gets a number of homegrown bands and international artists; Foxtrot (9108136001, Koramangala) that appeals to the young crowd looking for an affordable place; and Skyye (080 4909 0000, UB City), a more plush rooftop dance and dine venue. Kitty Ko (080 30527777; Lalti Ashok) has jettisoned its way on the scene in the last few years.

SHORT TRIPS FROM BENGALURU

Why Go?

Bengaluru is the perfect anchor city for those who love to wander. Within a few short hours (or less), you can, depending on your whims, find yourself exploring a winery, angling at a nature retreat, climbing a rocky outcrop, or marvelling at gorgeous architecture.

Quick Facts

GETTING AROUND
Efficient bus services (see p20) and reliable highways make short breaks from Bengaluru a breeze. There are plenty of eateries and toilets along the major highways exiting the city:

- NH 4: Pune–Bengaluru (Tumkur Rd);
- NH 7: Hyderabad–Bengaluru (Hosur Rd);
- NH 48: Hassan–Bengaluru;
- NH 209: Kanakapura–Bengaluru;
- SH 17: Mysuru–Bengaluru (Mysore Rd).

GREAT FOR

- Road to Mysuru (p71): Temples, toys, and adventure activities.
- Galibore Nature Camp (p68): Kayaking, nature walks, and biking amid wilderness.
- Srirangapatna (p71): Go on a Tipu Sultan trail.
- Taking a winery tour (p65): Winey weekend fun.
- Mysuru Palace (p70): Glimpse a glittering royal past.

Nandi Hills & Around

Discover the remnants of Tipu’s empire and monuments of earlier eras at Nandi Hills, once home to the Tiger of Mysuru’s impregnable fort. Sprawling gardens stretch across the hill and offer unparalleled views of the surrounding countryside, making this a great spot for a picnic or even an overnight stay.

Nandi Hills

Just 56km from Bengaluru, Nandi Hills sits safe within the ramparts of the Nandidurg Fortress, overlooking vast tracts of chequered farmland. Once known as ‘Ananda Giri’ or ‘Hill of Happiness’, it’s a highly popular day trip destination: teeming with a variety of flowering shrubs, cooled by hilly breezes even in summer, and scattered with monuments and shrines in the most unexpected of places. Spots that need extra attention include Tipu’s Summer Palace, a weathered red building that still resonates with the state’s history, and Tipu’s Drop, an erstwhile execution spot for prisoners. The ghastly history behind, it now offers panoramic views of the countryside below.

Accommodation & Eating

Mayura Pine Top (KSTDC) HOTEL ₹

8618799918; Nandi Hills, Chikballapur, Kolar; d from ₹2499 This hotel offers fantastic views of the landscape and comfortable rooms, including a suite featuring a canopied bed. If You Like: Wine & whisky

Nandi Hills encompasses one of India’s premier wine-growing regions, and is fast gaining an international reputation with some 18 wineries. Also near Bengaluru is India’s first single-malt whisky distillery.

Grover Wineries At an altitude of 920m this winery produces quality white and red varietals. Tours include tastings of five wines in the cellar rooms, accompanied by cheese and crackers. This is followed by lunch. From February to May you’ll also see grape crushing and can visit its vineyards. It’s located on the approach to Nandi Hills, around 40km north of Bengaluru.

Bengaluru Soma Vineyards Located in the shadow of the Makalidurga Hills (Maakli) the lakeside winery offers a lush sprawl of grape plantations, along with fruit trees including coconut palm, custard apple, and mango. A guided walk, wine-making, and an evening of barbecue make for great weekend revelry.

Heritage Grape Winery If you’re short on time, stop here on the way to Mysuru. Get a 45-minute tour of the vineyards and bottling plant; an in-house restaurant offers continental and north Indian fare.

Amrut Established in 1948, Amrut, India’s first producer of single malt whisky, offers free distillery tours run by knowledgeable guides. You get taken through the entire process before tasting world-class single malts and blends. It’s 20km outside Bengaluru on the road to Mysuru; pre-bookings are essential.
Bheemeshwari & Galibore Nature Camp

A comfortable drive of 100km from Bengaluru, Bheemeshwari and the adventure-packed Galibore Nature Camp nearby (14km) allow you to immerse yourself in the serenity of nature beside the majestic Kaveri River. Trek through the lush forests of the Basavana Betta, go on a coracle (a basket-like boat) ride, or watch birds and play ‘spot the difference’ between rocks and crocs.

Trekking

Bheemeshwari has treks of varying durations. These are categorised as easy, moderate and tough, depending on the distance (from as little as 4km, up to 30km). Snaking trails along the Kaveri, including one from Basavana Betta that winds along Chellure Hill almost parallel to the river, present a panoramic view of the valley below. You can also camp under the stars, surrounded by the craggy terrain of the Kaveri Wildlife Sanctuary.

Coracles & kayaking

Instructor-led kayaking and coracle rides are possible in the calmer parts of the water. Single and double kayaks are available. All year round except Jun–Sep

Birds & wildlife

Wildlife lovers will get their fix at both destinations. This area is home to over 200 species of birds, including the commonly sighted grey-headed fish eagle, tawny eagle, and the pied-crested cuckoo. Among the mammals one can spot here are sambar, spotted deer, jackals and elephants, as well as the endangered grizzled giant squirrel. Keep an eye out for crocodiles as well.

Mountain biking

Mountain bikes are available to hire and explore the nearby forest topography. One is allowed only in the accepted tourist limit inside the forest. All year round

Mekedatu & Sangam

Located within 10km of Galibore, these are popular picnic spots along the Kaveri River—Mekedatu is a narrow gorge, and Sangam is where the Kaveri and Arkavati rivers merge. For safety reasons, it is best avoided by the elderly and kids.

Top Tip: Day of action

If you’re pressed for time, Bheemeshwari Adventure and Nature Camp offers a great day package that include adventure activities (such as Burma loops, parallel walk, coracle ride) as well as lunch and tea/coffee. (Jungle Camps & Trails Plan; www.junglelodges.com; ₹2950 per person, check website for deals)

Expert Recommendation

Outdoor adventures in Karnataka

Gurudeep Ramakrishna is the co-founder and director of Unventured (www.unventured.com). He is passionate about offering travellers experiences that allow them to immerse themselves in the natural wealth, cultural diversity, and natural history of India.

Bengaluru and its vicinity have some incredible backdrops and thrilling adventure possibilities from whitewater rafting and bouldering, to more sedate activities like city cycling tours. Here are my top picks in and near the city.

Whitewater rafting & kayaking

While Barapole (in Kodagu/Coorg), Kali (at Dandeli) and Bhadra (at Chikkamagaluru) rivers are the most popular hotspots for rafting and kayaking in Karnataka, there are also opportunities closer to Bengaluru at the frothy Kaveri rapids at Bheemeshwari and Galibore (p66).

Cycling

Cycling enthusiasts can test their mettle on the slopes of Nandi Hills, or even at Turahalli Forest, a wonderful wooded patch in the city. Excursions are offered by companies like Bumsonthesaddle (www.bumsonthesaddle.com), Unventured (unventured.com), and Pedal in Tandem (pedalintandem.com).

Climbing and bouldering

Closest to the city, the boulders of Ramanagara (p71) form the best playground for seasoned and beginner-level climbers. Other locations nearby include Savandurga, Ananthagere, Kabbala Durga, Madhugiri and Turahalli.

Hikes

The Sunrise Trek to Uttari Betta and day treks to Nandi Durga and Channarayanadurga offer a rejuvenating experience. Try Plan the Unplanned (www.plantheunplanned.com).

Camping at Nandi Durga
Mysuru & Around

Located in the shadow of Chamundi Hill, Mysuru is the cultural heart of Karnataka. The city is also famous for its 10-day Dasara festival held in September or October. At this time Mysuru Palace is dramatically lit up every evening, while the town becomes a gigantic fairground, with concerts, dance performances, and cultural events.

Pomp and theatre define Mysuru’s Dasara illuminated by nearly 100,000 light bulbs that accent its majestic profile. 0821 2421051; 10am–5.30pm; adults/ children/foreigners ₹40/20/200, light & sound show ₹40/25/200

This hilltop temple is dedicated to the family goddess of the Mysuru royals, Chamundeshwari. It also features a 1.8m statue of Maharaja

The road to Mysuru

While Mysuru is only 144km from Bengaluru and can be reached in three hours, it might take longer since there are so many interesting stops.

Ramanagara Immortalised by Bollywood as the boulder-strewn den of Gabbar in the 1975 hit, Sholay, Ramanagara (47km) is a major rock climbing destination. Add to that great birding opportunities with the endangered yellow-throated bulbul and the long-billed vulture population.

Channapatna The Persian art form of making wooden toys and lacquer-ware thrives in this small town (61km). The colourful toys are made from the soft wood of the local ‘aale mara’ tree. About 21km from here, Kokkare Belur village is famous for its painted storks and spot-billed pelicans.

Somnathapura The grand soapstone Keshava Temple here dates to 1268 AD and was built under the Hoysala regime. The 5000 intricate statues were created by 500 artisans over a period of 58 years.

Srirangapatna On an island straddling the River Kaveri, this town is 16km from Mysuru. The seat of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan’s power, it was once the capital of Mysuru; see its glorious history come alive at the sound and light show (7–8pm) held every day at the fort. Another great option is a heritage walk, such as the 12-hour Tipu tour conducted by Wander Trails (www.wandertrails.com, ₹4000 per head). One of the most impressive monuments is Daria Daulat Bagh, Tipu’s intricately decorated summer palace. The Persian-style Gumbaz (the resting place of Tipu and his father) and the Indo-Islamic Jamia Masjid are other highlights. The town is also famous for the AD 894 Sri Ranganathaswamy Temple, a legacy of the Ganga rulers. The best place to stay (or stop for snacks) is the aptly named Mayura River View, a river-front KSTDC property.

Distinctive wooden toys at Channapatna
Ashtanga yoga

Mysuru is a world-famous centre for Ashtanga yoga, developed by Sri Krishna Pattabhi Jois. There are many well-regarded schools offering courses and certification. Among the best-known are:

IndeaYoga (0821 2416779; www.indeayoga.com): Offering hatha and ashtanga yoga with guru Bharath Shetty (who practised under the late BKS Iyengar) and his wife Archana. Drop-in classes and student accommodation are also offered.

Ashtanga Yoga Research Institute (www.kpjaji.org): Founded by the renowned K Pattabhi Jois, who taught Madonna her yoga moves. He has since passed away and the reins have been handed over to his grandson. Mystic School (www.mysoreyoga.in): Well-established school with a diverse program covering hatha and ashtanga, meditation and lectures.

Loosely styled to match the look and feel of RK Narayan’s Malgudi Days, it’s an atmospheric place.
Almost every highway that diverges from Bengaluru wends its way to an iconic heritage, nature or adventure destination. We’ve chosen destinations that make for a great day trip and are located within 200km from Bengaluru.

Shravanabelagola
The massive statue of Bahubali in Shravanabelagola is a spiritual hook for Jain pilgrims who arrive here to climb the temple hills of Chandragiri and Vindhyagiri. This is also the site of a festival called Mahamastakabhisheka, which is celebrated once every 12 years (the last date was in 2018). 158km; Dawn–dusk

Hoysaleswara Temple (Halebidu) are hallmarks of the most prosperous period of Hindu culture in Karnataka. Keep an eye out for exquisite sculptural details ranging from meticulously carved monkey teeth to bangles that still rotate around the wrists. 185km; Dawn–dusk

Nrityagram, Hessarghatta
Built by the late Odissi exponent Protima Bedi, who set out to revive the gurukul system of dance education, Nrityagram (32km) was started in 1990. Visit and you may see a graceful practice session in progress amid scenic surroundings and nature-inspired architecture by Gerard De Cunha. Call ahead. 32km; %80 28466312; www.nrityagram.org; entry `100 (free for kids and seniors); 10am–2pm, Tue–Sat (dance classes 10.30am–1pm)

Chitradurga
Chitradurga Fort rises from a boulder-strewn hill and according to lore dates back to the time of the Mahabharata, when the demon brother-sister duo, Hidimba and Hidimbi, lived here. Legend goes that Bhima married Hidimbi and had a son with her. The fort eventually belonged to Timmana Nayaka, a military serviceman of the Vijayanagar Empire in the 16th century, before it fell in the hands of Hyder Ali about 100 years later. The Chandravalli Caves close by are worth a visit too. 203km; Adult/foreigner `5/100; 6am–6pm

Shivasamudra Waterfalls
A post-monsoon must-visit, the frothy Shivasamudra Waterfalls (139km) are an excellent addition to Bengaluru. Originating from the Kaveri River, tiny rivulets from across the Deccan plateau converge here and plummet down a height of almost 100m. The falls have coverage of 305m across, making for a massive curtain of water. 203km; Adult/foreigner `5/100; 6am–6pm

Ranganathittu Bird Sanctuary
The ideal time to visit the sanctuary (130km) is from December to February, when over 40,000 birds (including migratory ones) congregate here. The feathered friends here include the painted stork, Asian openbill, common spoonbill, woolly-necked stork, black-headed ibis, lesser whistling duck, and the great stone plover. 130km from Bengaluru; 19km from Mysuru; 9am–6pm; Indians/foreigners `50/200

Talakkad
The arid-looking terrain on the edge of the Kaveri River is home to a clutch of 30 ancient temples. While some of these are buried under sand, some excellent architecture remains. Legend goes that twin brothers, Tala and Kadu, once saw wild elephants worshipping a tree that contained an image of Shiva. The brothers started cutting the tree, only to discover that the elephants were sages. As soon as they cut the tree, it was miraculously restored. Two stone images in front of the Veerbhadraswamy Temple, are said to represent the brothers. Much later, this was one of the pit stops for Rama on his way to Lanka. 130km

THIS GUIDE HAS BEEN RESEARCHED AND AUTHORED BY:

A bonafide vagabond, Supriya Sehgal has traversed the length and breadth of the country for over 15 years.

Karantaka is especially close to her heart as she kicked off her solo wanderings discovering different corners of the state and wrote her first travel book about weekend getaways from the capital. Even a decade later, she finds it one of the most inspiring destinations in India.
